Press Release

The Professional Photographers of Canada is pleased to announce that:

Violet Aubertin MPA , has just earned an accreditation in Animal Portrait, at our most recent Accreditation judging.

Accreditation is the first elevation above the general membership level and is achieved by submitting samples of the applicant's photography to a PPOC Board of Examiners. Accreditation demonstrates that the photographer is capable of delivering professional quality photography in a chosen category. In assessing Accreditation Submissions, the judges will consider the following criteria: Vision, Impact, Composition, and Technical Merit.

Along with other requirements for service, image, and education merits, a minimum of one Accreditation is required to qualify for a Craftsman of Photographic Arts (CPA) and two Accreditations are needed for a Masters of Photographic Arts (MPA).
